Skills & Experience:

I am a veteran and nonprofit executive with a lifelong commitment to learning and public service. As Executive Director of Veterans in Emerging Technology & AI Governance (VET-AIG), I manage organizational governance, strategic planning, and community partnerships—experience directly applicable to board service. Leading VET-AIG has taught me fiscal oversight, stakeholder engagement, and how to balance mission with operational sustainability.

My fifteen years in the Air Force, Army National Guard, and National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency developed my analytical rigor, collaborative leadership, and ability to synthesize complex information for diverse audiences—skills essential for thoughtful policy review and strategic decision-making at the board level.

I bring unique perspective on digital literacy and equitable access to technology. Having completed the AI Ethics, Regulation, and Compliance Programme at Oxford's Saïd Business School, I understand how emerging technologies can empower communities or deepen exclusion. Libraries are uniquely positioned to bridge this divide, and I'm eager to help the District navigate the evolving landscape of digital literacy while preserving traditional services.

My connection to libraries is personal. As a first-generation UNLV graduate, public libraries were where I learned to explore ideas freely and imagine new possibilities. That experience drives my belief that libraries are essential civic infrastructure—not just repositories of books, but spaces that cultivate imagination, support working families, and serve as anchors of community life. I would bring disciplined leadership, a commitment to equitable access, and enthusiasm for supporting both literacy and lifelong learning across Clark County's diverse communities.

Letter of Interest – Las Vegas–Clark County Library District Board of Trustees

Dear Members of the Board of Trustees Selection Committee,

I am writing to express my sincere interest in serving as a Trustee for the Las Vegas–Clark County Library District. As a veteran and former federal geospatial-intelligence analyst, I have spent my career analyzing information, leading teams, and mentoring others to think critically and communicate clearly. Skills that I believe align naturally with the Library District’s mission to foster literacy, access, and lifelong learning.

Books shaped my imagination and my understanding of the world. Growing up, the library was both refuge and launchpad, a place where ideas became the foundation for real-world exploration. Today, I see our libraries as even more essential: they bridge the digital divide, empower jobseekers and students, and anchor civic life in an era of constant change.

As Executive Director of Veterans in Emerging Technology & AI Governance (VET-AIG), I work with service members transitioning into technology and policy careers. That experience has deepened my commitment to equitable access to information, digital literacy, and responsible innovation. I hope to bring that same spirit of service, curiosity, and stewardship to the Library District's work—supporting both traditional literacy and the evolving landscape of digital learning.

I understand that Board membership requires dedicated time, thoughtful governance, and a commitment to representing the diverse needs of Clark County residents. I am prepared to attend regular meetings, engage meaningfully with library staff and community stakeholders, and make decisions guided by the District's mission and our community's best interests. My experience leading a nonprofit organization has provided me with practical insight into governance, strategic planning, and the importance of fiscal responsibility in service of mission-driven work.

I would be honored to contribute my leadership experience, community perspective, and enthusiasm for learning to the Board of Trustees. Thank you for considering my application and for the continued work you do on behalf of Clark County residents.

Sincerely,

Kurt F. Geyrozaga
