Task Order RP.C9D24056 made on this Fourteenth Day of August, 2025, BETWEEN CLARK COUNTY, NEVADA, hereinafter referred to as "COUNTY", and Carpenter Sellers Del Gatto Architects, PC dba Carpenter Sellers Del Gatto Architects, located in Las Vegas, Nevada, hereinafter referred to as "CONSULTANT" for the following PROJECT:

Fire station 853 was founded in 1962 following the devastating fire that destroyed Mount Charleston Lodge. Recognizing the need for dedicated fire services in the area, the community established Station 853 to protect residents and visitors in Kyle Canyon. Originally established in 1962, the station was built to serve a much smaller community with fewer resources. Over the decades, the local population has grown, and the station's infrastructure has become outdated. The design no longer meets current standards for fire safety, equipment storage, or personnel accommodation. The station's limited space hampers its ability to house modern firefighting apparatus and equipment. With the increasing complexity and size of firefighting vehicles, the existing bays are insufficient, leading to operational inefficiencies. Given these challenges, there is a recognized need for a new, modern fire station that can adequately support the growing community, and evolving firefighting demands in the Kyle Canyon area, which is proposed at the volunteer station across from station 853.

COUNTY'S Program for the subject Project:

Project Name and address/APN#

RP.C9D24056 Mt. Charleston Fire Station Replacement Design, 25 Ski Chalet, Mt. Charleston, NV 89124, APN 129-36-101-013

Fire station 853 was founded in 1962 following the devastating fire that destroyed Mount Charleston Lodge. Recognizing the need for dedicated fire services in the area, the community established Station 853 to protect residents and visitors in Kyle Canyon. Originally established in 1962, the station was built to serve a much smaller community with fewer resources. Over the decades, the local population has grown, and the station's infrastructure has become outdated. The design no longer meets current standards for fire safety, equipment storage, or personnel accommodation. The station's limited space hampers its ability to house modern firefighting apparatus and equipment. With the increasing complexity and size of firefighting vehicles, the existing bays are insufficient, leading to operational inefficiencies. Given these challenges, there is a recognized need for a new, modern fire station that can adequately support the growing community, and evolving firefighting demands in the Kyle Canyon area, which is proposed at the volunteer station across from station 853.

Projects physical characteristics:

The current location of Station 853 is constrained by its parcel size, approximately 1,650 square feet, limiting the ability to expand facilities or accommodate modern firefighting equipment. This spatial limitation hinders the station's capacity to meet growing community needs and evolving emergency response requirements. Fire Station 853 is a critical lifeline for the residents, visitors, and natural resources of Kyle Canyon. While its facilities may be outdated, its location remains ideal and irreplaceable. Situated in the heart of the Mount Charleston community, the station provides rapid response times to a high-risk area prone to wildfires, severe weather events, and increasing tourism-related incidents. Relocating the station farther down the mountain or outside the canyon would significantly increase response times during emergencies, particularly in winter, when road conditions can be hazardous or impassable. Every minute matters in a fire, medical, or rescue emergency, and delays could cost lives and property. The fire district has requested to use the volunteer station 853 site across the street, for the new station.

The existing volunteer station 853 (across from fire station 853) sits approximately on Clark County Library District's property. The Library District has been kind enough to allow the existing volunteer station to be demolished, and construction of a new station to take place on the volunteer station's footprint. Site challenges include flooding concern. In 2023, a 100-year rainstorm occurred, causing severe flooding and damage to the community and volunteer fire station. There is concern for a future flood event, however Additional site challenges include private roads to access for proposed fire station site. Access to the volunteer fire station via Ski Chalet Place, located off Kyle Canyon Road, presents a significant challenge as the road is privately owned. Clark County is actively exploring a proposal to acquire or secure an easement for continued use of this access route.

Exhibit A - INITIAL INFORMATION

Additionally, the County is engaged in discussions with the owner of parcel APN 129-36-510-013, located at 4638 Yellow Pine Avenue, which is adjacent to County-owned property (APN 129-36-510-012). As part of the station's future planning and design, consideration should be given to incorporating the County parcel (APN 129-36-510-012) for use as a parking and equipment storage to support volunteer operations.

However, access to another County parcel (APN 129-36-510-118) is also constrained by private ownership of the connecting roadway, which currently lacks legal easement. Resolving these easement and access issues is essential for supporting any future development or operational improvements to Volunteer Station 853.

The site design should include consideration of Clark County's parcel (APN 129-36-510-118), for trash enclosure, storage, and secured parking for the station. Design should propose the option of an elevated station with piers, where parking is available under the fire station, and the station's apparatus bay can be accessed off Kyle Canyon, should the private properties not accommodate the design needs in a timely manner. Driving access to the generator should be considered and any other maintenance to the building. The design should not impede the existing library. Limit any draining impacts other than improvements that would protect the new structure. Existing utilities to be identified and determine if they are to be abandoned due to damage from the 100-year storm in 2023. Selected design consultant to complete the investigative work and any existing utilities. The parcel's environmental and topographical features, such as its mountainous terrain and potential environmental protections, can pose challenges to construction and infrastructure improvements. These factors may necessitate additional studies, permits, and considerations, further complicating access and development efforts.

Landscape should be consistent with the neighborhood and consider having any low maintenance landscape in the path where salt is often placed by Public Works or NDOT during the snow maintenance.

The design should consider minimal long term maintenance requirements, and non-proprietary design elements. Due to the snow conditions, the roof should be sloped enough where it limits the load on the roof and should have covered walkways to prevent walkways and stairs from snow piles.

The new station should be a modern, approximately 10,000 square feet, purpose-built structure that meets current fire service standards and building codes, with a focus on durability, wildfire resistance, and energy efficiency. It must be designed to function year-round in the mountain environment, accounting for snow loads, temperature extremes, and high winds. A two-story facility is recommended to fit within the footprint available.

The apparatus bays should accommodate a 3-bay, double-deep bay sized for structural engines, wildland engines, and rescue vehicles, overhead clearance for modern fire apparatus and room for safe ingress/egress, and heated bay floors or radiant heating to prevent freezing in winter. Ideally the design could accommodate a drive through apparatus bay.

Living spaces should include two captain dorms and four dorms. The dorms shall be designed with enough space to accommodate a twin xl size bed and bedframe, desk, and a three-set wardrobe cabinet. A separate shower/restroom for the captain's area, one ADA shower/restroom, one standard shower/restroom, and one public restroom. Laundry, custodial, electrical/IDF, EMS, mechanical, turnout, fire riser, elevator, and captain's office. Common areas include a kitchen, dining area, patio, day room, gym, training room, and turnout locker facilities.
