I have worked in the field for over a decade with a goal of advancing the rights and health of children and adolescents. I am trauma focused and certified, and lead clinicians in our practice to be well qualified and informed. I have training in early childhood mental health, trauma (emotional, physical, sexual, neglect), and I am well versed in the foster/adoptive systems. I am passionate about education on mental health, parenting success and reunification, and kinship rights and care. I feel that my strengths will make me a great candidate for this role and will allow me to follow my passion in advancing the community.

INTEREST LETTER

To Whom it May Concern,

I am a motivated applicant seeking a role that will allow me to continue my passion for research, education, and advancing the community. I have been a dedicated individual and family therapist in private practice with a passion for treating individuals experiencing trauma. I have completed a clinical internship with various agencies focused on foster and adoptive youth, and populations experiencing intensive crises. In my internship, I focused heavily on expanding my understanding of neurodiversity and treatment within this population. I have utilized my skills as an agency field instructor to teach the upcoming professionals in my field about ethics, policy, effective and ethical treatment for individuals and families, and have worked in union with students to reduce burn out and increase healthy relationships with work and self.

I have dedicated my career to mental health with a desire to continuously build upon my skillset and privilege to work alongside such varied populations. I have a particular passion for forensics in mental health, and how this population can be vastly misunderstood. I have completed my PhD in Forensic Psychology with my dissertation being focused on trauma and the autonomic nervous system of policing professionals.

My career has been a focal point to expansions of personal and professional interest. In all of my roles, educating and connection has always been at the forefront. I am hopeful that my leadership and management skills will be beneficial to this role, and that my creativity will allow me to build upon the role itself. I have been, and continue to be, a productive, insightful, and collaborative professional. I am confident these skills, alongside my ability to adapt and communicate well with peers, will allow me to fulfill this role successfully.

Thank you for your consideration.
